

DISTILL

AUGUST 7-8, 2014 • SAN FRANCISCO, CA

A developer conference for people who create and build web and mobile technology

Distill is a developer conference for people who create and build web and mobile technology. This year's conference will feature over 30 speakers exploring software development, unique solutions to common problems using current tools, and much more. These innovators will bring their knowledge and deliver talks focusing on real world implementation of the advances driving the technology industry today and in the future.

The benefits of sending your employees to Distill are extensive – attendees will leave the event enriched with new knowledge about cutting-edge ways to build, run, and scale inventive software. Additionally, attendees will network with potential customers and partners, share ideas with a receptive audience, and be able to recruit new talent from a pool of highly engaged developers, architects, and designers.

Hear from experts in the following areas

- Web and software development
- Mobile development
- Services oriented architecture (SOA)
- Innovative hardware platforms
- Responsive design
- Data analytics
- Large scale applications
- Deployment strategies
- Team management

Learn

Distill is an opportunity for developers, DevOps, and entrepreneurs looking to cultivate skills and get educated on bleeding edge techniques and technology from some of the best and brightest in the industry. The lessons learned at Distill will be directly applicable to the development strategies of entrepreneurs, startups and enterprise teams.

Share

Distill is a great place to share the innovative tech products you're currently working on. Sow the seeds among future customers and industry thought leaders or sign up for a lightning talk and tell your fellow attendees how your idea is going to change the world.

Notable speakers include

- Ben Huh, Founder & CEO, Cheezburger
- Steve Souders, Chief Performance Engineer, Fastly
- Harper Reed, Chief Technology Officer for Barack Obama's 2012 Campaign
- Many more industry leaders including the maintainer of Bundler, one of the designers of Honda's Asimo robot, and more founders and developers creating the latest and greatest in tech

Connect

Distill attracts luminaries and thought leaders from a variety of disciplines. Developers, architects, designers, and decision makers will congregate at the event. Throughout the conference, attendees will have ample opportunity to network and forge connections with other innovative, forward-thinking technologists.

Recruit

Hiring? Distill is guaranteed to attract great developers of all types. As a language agnostic event, you'll meet and hear from programmers who work in a wide variety of different technologies, both emergent and established.

Distill is about education, cross-pollination and community – it is our hope that your employees will forge new relationships with fellow attendees and leave the conference feeling enriched, edified and inspired.

For 3 or more tickets, we are offering a group discount of 30% off per ticket.

Please contact distill@engineyard.com to get your offer.